The Ladies in PINK...

Cover Story

...VOLUNTEERS who really CARE

Story by Joy Sommer

They are a familiar sight around the hospital; dressed in their salmon-pink smocks, offering help and a friendly smile to all they encounter.

Members of the San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary are mostly ladies, some young, some not-so-young. They staff the lobby information desk and gift shop, donate time in the Mental Health Department to teach crafts, conduct children's tours of the hospital, run the Tel-Med service, serve as hostesses for Maternity Tours and sponsor fund-raising activities for the hospital.

"We're a very versatile group," said Mary Curtis, public relations director of San Antonio Community Hospital, of the auxiliary.

"Our group represents a large cross-section of the community — we're not just a group of doctors' wives, although we do have members whose husbands are doctors," she said.

Curtis said the group includes many single women, retired individuals and widows, but that no one group dominates the membership. "These are all people who give of their time and energies because they care. It's not a social club — these people work to make things happen here at the hospital."

Just last month, the auxiliary presented the hospital with a check for $50,000, representing their fundraising efforts for the year. "The first $5,000 was earmarked for Tel-Med and the remainder goes to the building fund," said auxiliary president Mrs. Bruce Keeling.

Already, they have renewed their pledge and are hoping to add $125,000 to the building fund in the next three years.

The bulk of what is raised comes from profits generated by their gift shop in the hospital's main lobby. "This year profit in the gift shop was $41,965.25," Keeling said. "That number really stuck in my mind. It's amazing how much business that little area does."

The shop, tucked away in a small corner of the lobby, offers a variety of gift items including flowers and jewelry, toiletries, nightware, candy and magazines.

"It's our big money-maker," Keeling said. "Since all the hours are volunteer and we only pay a manager, we don't have much overhead."

Keeling, whose husband is a radiologist at the hospital, has been involved with the auxiliary for nearly a dozen years. "I grew up with volunteering but I never found anything as fulfilling as working here at the hospital. I tried other things, the PTA for example, but this was the one for me," she said.

Keeling was recently installed for a second term as president. "This time it should be easier," she said referring to the second stint, "I think I am more familiar with the position and what's expected."

One of the newer volunteers, Deanna Thompson, got involved in the auxiliary when she first moved to Upland in 1980. "I was bored and I didn't know too many people, and I was interested in getting into something with patient contact like the Candy Strippers."

"When I discovered the only patient contact was through the Bookmobile Program (now defunct)... I signed up for that," she said.

Thompson, who was awarded both her 1,000- and 1,500-hour pins for volunteering, soon found that she was spending the majority of her day at the hospital.

"No one was more surprised than me when I found out how many hours I had been there. I knew I was spending most of the day there but I was having such a good time I never noticed how it was mounting up."

As each volunteer selects her area of interest and then is assigned, there is a great deal of latitude for volunteers to find their special niche.

"Whether people wish to spend time days or evenings, with others or in a more solitary place, we can find something for them," Curtis said. This year the membership has swelled to 639, an all-time high.

"I assume more people are hearing about us and finding that it's a very worthwhile, rewarding volunteer position and that there is enough flexibility even for those who have full-time jobs and not very much time to give," Curtis said.

The auxiliary got its start in 1924. The goals and ideals they first envisioned for the organization have stood the test of time and are still guiding those who devote their time and effort toward the hospital and its patients.

"We are a support group — plain and simple," Curtis said, "and that was the main idea when the auxiliary formed back in 1924."

There's a lot of behind the scenes work in keeping the Gift Shop running smoothly. Doing inventory (left photo) are Dorothy Sherwood and Deanna Thompson. Although the shop is small, revenues is large. Mrs. Gordon Ayers makes a purchase (below) from volunteers Mrs. Ernest Wagner and Alice Jasiere.

When the cellars of the hospital were being cleaned out, a box containing the books of the original minutes was discovered. It had been thought lost.

The minutes of Nov. 17, 1924, compiled by then secretary Gertrude Reid, record the why and how behind formation of the group.

"In response to the invitation of Mrs. Vermilye, superintendent of San Antonio Community Hospital," says Reid's report, "representatives of the women's organizations in the territory served by the hospital met in the library at 3 p.m. to discuss the organization of the women's auxiliary.

"Mrs. E.C. Harwood, acting as temporary chairman, spoke of some of the ways the auxiliary can be of service to the hospital and the community."

Among the ways suggested in that first meeting nearly 60 years ago, were the endowment of a free bed and encouraging public interest in keeping hospital costs down by contributing fruit, vegetables and other farm products.

They also planned on providing necessities and equipment that could not have been obtained without outside help.

Reid's account also mentioned, "It can assist in a social way by providing entertainment and good cheer for patients and nurses and serve as a peace-maker between the hospital and the public."

Although implementation of many of the goals has altered slightly, the auxiliary has stuck to its basic premise of service to the hospital.

The Sweet Pea Baby Fund, founded in the mid-1920s, has matured into the Sick Baby Fund, but performs the same function — helping those who are not eligible for programs that help sick children.

Canning of farm products for the hospital is no longer done, the group raises money to help with things like the building fund.

"We have changed in outward ways but, basically, we'll always be the same — supporting the hospital and its patients," Curtis said.

Anyone interested in the auxiliary can call the hospital 985-2811 and ask for Curtis. "We invite those interested to our luncheons and explain the auxiliary to them. It gives them an opportunity to meet other members and get the feel of the hospital."

"I've worked with volunteers all my life," Curtis said, "but these are very special people — they are volunteers who really care." □

Animal Shelter workers strive to achieve more adoptions of cats, dogs

By Joy Sommer

Upland's Animal Shelter is one of those places that most citizens are unaware even exists. Tucked in a facility on Campus Avenue north of Foothill, the building looks abandoned and a bit forlorn.

"We're primarily just a holding facility," said Joy Harvey, who handles adoptions on behalf of PAWS (Promote Animal Welfare and Safety), for the city-operated facility.

What happens is when an animal is picked up by city animal control officers, it is taken to the facility and "held" for 72 hours. After that time, the animal can be released for adoption.

Unfortunately, most of the animals have to be destroyed because there just aren't enough adoptive families for the animals they have, Harvey said.

"We do quite well with dogs," Harvey said, "the adoption rate for them is around 65 percent but the cats..."

Harvey admits it is very disheartening. "We just don't do well with cats...we look at them and we know we're looking at dead animals."

With cats in season right now, Harvey worries about all the animals that will never have a chance to find a home with a loving, caring family. So far this year only four cats have been adopted out of the facility out of all those that have come in.

"We know we're going to be bombarded and we're just hoping that this time we'll find homes for more of them."

Harvey says spaying and neutering of the animals is the only answer. "If people who are thinking about breeding a dog or cat would just visit the shelter for a few times before they do it, they just might change their minds."

Because of their ties with Pet

Assistance, people adopting animals from the shelter can take advantage of neutering or spaying and then paying what they can afford for the service. Any cat coming from the shelter has to have spay or neuter deposit posted before adoption.

Harvey, who is president and founder of PAWS, hopes that some day the shelter will be open days for viewing with the best adoption program possible.

"We have plans for fundraisers that we hope will help this dream come true. Right now we cooperate with the city by doing the adoption portion but we'd like to see it some day be open for people to come all the time instead of only when they call to make an appointment."

When PAWS was founded four years ago, not too many people took what they were doing seriously. "It's taken awhile," Harvey said, "but we've finally gotten some credibility with the city. They no longer think of us as a group of loony women who have nothing better to do."

Harvey and a small nucleus of committed individuals composed of Marian Cochran, Peggy Atkins and Shirley Morrell, among others, said many people see them as going overboard on the subject.

"Maybe, in their eyes, we are, but we're not going to go away and forget the problem."

One of their newest means of promoting adoption of pets from the shelter is a new feature being introduced in the Upland News this week — Pet of the Week.

"Through Pet of the Week, we hope increase awareness of animals available in the Upland Shelter and, of course, adopt out the pets featured," Harvey said.

Anyone interested in taking a look at the animals available at the shelter can call 899-1549, 982-1909 or 985-5965.

Fingerprinting of children offered by PTA

Upland parents have an opportunity Saturday to take advantage of a free fingerprinting of their off-spring by PTA volunteers at Upland Junior High School.

Sponsored by the local PTAs, the Upland School District and the Upland Police Department, the voluntary program will give parents the chance to have a permanent record of their children's prints to keep at home for use in an emergency.

"We are encouraging parents to take advantage of this free service," said Ilene Newman, president of Sycamore Elementary PTA. "Should a child be missing or involved in a natural disaster, the fingerprints could then be given to law enforcement officials to assist in identification."

Permission slips will be signed by parents prior to the printing and the cards will be handed to the parent upon completion.

Fingerprinting will be done at Upland from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. For those who miss the first session, volunteers will offer a second chance at Pioneer Junior High on June 18, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"I guess people are really beginning to see the value of this program," Newman said. "We have just been contacted to help set up a similar program in Rancho Cucamonga this summer."

Fashion show raises funds for SLAM

By Linda Beckman

A bouquet of garden-fresh fashion delighted the capacity crowd at the recent San Bernardino/Riverside Weight Watchers fashion show to benefit SLAM (Society's League Against Molestation).

"Sunshine is You" was the show theme and, accordingly, the fashions were bright and dazzling with splashes of red, hot pink, grape and fuchsia interspersed with the beige and sand tones of the decidedly feminine clothes provided by Cree's of Riverside. Soft flowing fabrics were used in many of the spring fashions which ranged from smartly-tailored executive suits to jungle-print beach wear as well as a collection of both long and short evening dresses.

The predominate feature of this season seems to be added neck and sleeve interest. Several of the casual outfits featured lattice-type open work on short and mid-length sleeves as well as formal dresses with puffed and pleated sleeve treatments.

Wide fabric belting on cinched waistlines and fuller skirts seem to be the coming trend. The 50s influence was seen in a "Marilyn Monroe" type halter dress with layered bodice and gathered skirt.

The hit of the show was a black, strapless bathing suit accented with bright jungle flowers. The suit which featured French-cut legs, was worn with a long, haltered cover-up of hot tropical striping. As commentator Mary Ann Younghaus said, "Every Weight Watcher dreams of looking like this on the beach."

Men's fashions, provided by Atwoods of Upland, featured traditional clothing with the elegant white or cream dinner jacket and double-breasted navy blazer still enjoying popularity.

All models in the show are members of Weight Watchers and most had reached their goal weights. Weight losses ranged from 24 to 88 pounds.

Most of the guests who crowded the first floor ballroom of the San Bernardino Hilton Hotel were also Weight Watchers and a combined total weight loss of all present was a whopping 8,633 pounds.

Al Cutler, area director for Weight Watchers International, presented an inspirational message with a "do it now" theme. "Don't wait to lose weight before you live," he told the enthusiastic crowd.

SLAM representative Kathy Yorba accepted the donation and said it would go a long way toward furthering the group's activities which include monitoring court cases, establishing a Children's Rights Center at the University of La Verne College of Law and providing therapy groups with anatomical dolls which help the traumatized child to act out the pain and frustration of his/her molestation where verbalization is impossible or inadequate. Yorba said of the crowd, "The happiness and fellowship here today is amazing." She also emphasized the importance of events such as the fashion show to promote public awareness of the growing problem of child molestation.

After the shocking death of Amy Sue Seitz, SLAM's sister organization (Stronger Legislation Against Molestation) launched an extensive public education drive through media communication and directed legislative lobbying efforts for two years until effective Jan. 1, 1982, SLAM's original goals were accomplished with massive revisions of the laws dealing with the sexual exploitation of children and MDSO (Mentally Disordered Sex Offender) Program in California was abolished and mandatory prison terms were enacted for crimes against children.

For further information on SLAM, contact, 947-3204 or 865-2151 (24-hour hot line) or write P.O. Box 1267, Chino, CA 91710.

Linda Beckman is a student at Chaffey College.

Edie Dustman, Alta Loma, who has lost 49½ pounds, was one of the models in the Weight Watchers Fashion Show held in San Bernardino.

UHS tall flag unit looking for recruits

The Upland High School tall flag unit is looking for new recruits for the 1983-84 marching season.

All students who will be enrolled at the school during the 1983-84 academic year are invited to attend a get-acquainted meeting at the UHS band room Friday, 3:30 to 5 p.m. The room is located just off the school's San Antonio Street entrance parking lot.

The meeting will consist of a video tape of a field show competition, demonstrations and information regarding the upcoming season's activities. Parents are welcome.

The tall flag unit marches with the band and participates in several parades and a number of field show competitions throughout the fall and winter.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Carol Craig at 599-1116.

How well could we cope with quake?

By Lee Travers
Upland City Manager

People born and brought up in California, as well as many who have moved here from other places, take California's earthquakes as a fact of life — nothing that we really want to be involved in but one of those situations which is ever-present and which we accept in trade for not having hurricanes, tornadoes, snow, slush, high humidity and other manifestations of nature that are encountered in other parts of the country. Many of us have been bounced around by earthquakes during our lives and, for the most part, have survived with little or no damage. We have seen what does happen when you are close to the epicenter of a quake either through pictures televised, or, in some cases, in the flesh, such as the aftermath of the 1933 earthquake in Long Beach.

I recall in those days being on double session in school in a temporary building because the fine brick school building was off-limits to us — it looked like a fun place to go in and crawl around where the walls had collapsed and so on, but nobody was allowed to do so for obvious reasons. In our day-to-day ignoring of the potential disaster of a major earthquake centered nearby, we are following the example of the ostrich in burying our heads so that we don't see things we don't want to see. For many of us, it's been a successful approach.

I've lived over half a century that way and haven't yet been hurt, but I do occasionally stop to think that my desk is right beside a 10-foot high plate glass window and I sometimes wonder how agile I can be if that big quake comes and that glass starts to break all over me — if the plate glass window doesn't resolve the problem then and there, I'll move to the next step of how do we cope with the effects of a major earthquake in our vicinity.

The city has had a dry run at doing this where we've gathered the disaster team in our operation center and "on paper" coped with broken utilities like electricity, impassable roadways, outbreak of fire, sewage flowing down the streets and other possible ramifications of a major quake. The simulation brought reality to the participants but the participants represented fewer than 2/100's of 1 percent of the potential affected population.

How well will Upland citizens cope with a potentially devastating earthquake? Experience shows us that most people are quite resourceful and competent to handle emergencies. Many of the tools we use in coping with emergencies may not be readily available when the big earthquake occurs — such as telephones to find out where the rest of the family is and whether they're alright, electricity to operate our appliances and to operate our lights, water to put out fires (should they occur), electricity to keep our frozen foods cold and electricity or natural gas to warm foods when it's time to eat.

In times of such stress, some people look to government to provide the answers — and government will attempt to do so — however, we must remember that people may very well be totally on their own resources for an unknown length of

R.C. residents can find history in own backyard

By Matt Coker

People in Rancho Cucamonga don't have to go to the Smithsonian Institution or county and college museums to look for pieces of history and prehistory. It's right in their own backyards.

Bernice McAllister, a Chaffey College history and archeology professor, has conducted digs in the area which have turned up a number of knives, points, bowls and other tools used by Indians who dwelled in the area.

The local hotspots for digging presently include the Wind Rows Housing project at Yew Street and Vineyard Avenue, the Oak Creek site near the housing project at the top of Haven Avenue and the brickyard at Foothill Boulevard near Baker Avenue.

Archeologists are often the only people who can tell if an unearthed item is an ancient tool or just an ordinary rock.

Items found in the area are either at the San Bernardino County Museum or among the college's collection.

Former history and archeology students at Chaffey had a great mentor to follow. If anyone knows anything at all about local history — from five to 2,000 years ago — it's Bernice McAllister.

Without much support, she has produced a decent archeology program at the college.

McAllister has a refreshing outlook

Brickyard remains 'unsolved mystery'

By Matt Coker

Betty Love, a former student of Chaffey College history and archeology professor Bernice McAllister, has her very own archeological mystery.

Love, who majored in art history at San Jose State University before attending Chaffey College, is fascinated by the area's history, which she says makes this "a richer place to live."

Yet, the emphasis on her digs have not been centered around activities which took place thousands of years ago.

Love, an Upland housewife, is picking up on research of former Chaffey College students Priscilla Breaux and Ruth Chase. She has been trying to find out why a 120-year-old brickyard exists where it does and why there is no record or recollection of it being there.

"It's an unsolved mystery," she said. "It's laid here over 100 years. No one knew it existed. The owner (Don Schowalter) found bricks on his property in 1978."

The brickyard is located in Rancho Cucamonga just off Foothill Boulevard near the corner of Baker Avenue. A few hundred yards away is the Rains House and the Sycamore Inn.

The Chaffey College archeology crew uncovered a 30 by 40 foot area of stacked brick pavement the same year of Schowalter's discovery. Love estimates the yard as being one-third to one-half larger than the area uncovered.

In fact, Foothill Boulevard was paved right over the yard. A tunnel under Foothill at the time of the dig ran nine feet but still failed to reach the end of the brickyard. At least four different pipes have been run through some of the bricks as well.

To look at the excavation site now one sees no more than weeds. However, if the weeds were cleared, the brick floor upon which the kilns were built would be quite visible.

Moving the bricks would be impossible since most crumble in human hands.

History shows that property where the brickyard sits once belonged to John and Dona Merced Rains. Some local history buffs believe the burned bricks made at the yard were used to build the Rains House in 1861.

While it is documented that the bricks for the Rains House were manufactured on site by the Mullally, Porter and Ayers brick firm of Los Angeles, no hard evidence has been found to date that proves the Chaffey College digging site is that brickyard.

Though bricks at the Rains House have been found with the Mullally stamp, the excavation of the bricks at the brickyard have not turned up such a mark.

Some historians scoff at the notion of this being the site for the Rains structures since the brickyard is located three-quarters of a mile away from the buildings.

The bricks that Love has turned up were built by more sophisticated means than some of those

McAllister an expert on local history

on life. Her brain works so quickly, she is sometimes hard to follow, but her love of teaching comes across with gentle ease.

Besides heading area digs at the brickyard, above the college and throughout the area, McAllister has taken students to Calico where rock tools which may have been used by early man were found.

In fact, carbon dating indicates the rocks are so old (perhaps 200,000 years), that experts do not believe man used them.

The age of the tools is "really blowing the scientists' minds," one student said.

Man could not have existed in what is now America that long ago, experts have said.

According to bones found on this hemisphere, the oldest man should have dwelled here between 40,000 to 50,000 years ago. If those were the tools of a being from 200,000 years ago, experts say it was not a man but one of the primates.

What is needed to prove man actually dwelled there that long ago are bones. The acidic conditions of the area probably negate that possibility, though students are still looking.

Finding teeth, which are harder than bones, could also prove man lived there that long ago.

Funding for these studies is dwindling, however. Some of the artifacts Chaffey College students have uncovered look too good to be true and some experts discount them as being from Arizona.

Just more fuel to the many mysteries those pesty archeology students seem to uncover.

"Ever since I was a child, my parents and I went to Arizona," Jim Symonds said. "I have a four corners pot in my private collection which is 2,000 years old."

Horse show to raise funds for equestrian facility

An open horse show will be held on Sunday, June 12, to benefit Rancho Cucamonga's Heritage Park Equestrian Facility.

The show promises to be one of the biggest and best of the year in the area and is being hosted by the Alta Loma Riding Club.

Judge for the event will be Wilma Tate, and awards will be given to winners of each class, plus ribbons to those placing first through eighth in each class. A special garland will be given the high point English and Western rider.

"All benefits from the show will go toward the development of the planned equestrian facilities at Heritage Park in Rancho Cucamonga," stated Al Kopperud, Alta Loma Riding Club president.

Each class in the show will be sponsored by a local merchant or family and the "Bill Roudenbush Memorial Awards" will be given out during the lunch break.

College gets grant

A grant of $1,000 has been received by Harvey Mudd College from the Gulf Oil Foundation in support of the college's Energy Institute.

D. Kenneth Baker, president of Harvey Mudd College, said the grant money would be used to further the programs of the institute, which conducts research into energy-related problems.

The grant is part of the Gulf Aid to Education Program, under which funds are distributed to further the educational programs of worthy agencies, colleges and universities in the United States and its territories.

Are you ready to cope with earthquake?

time. Normally, when there is a disaster — natural or otherwise — it is concentrated in one or two localities so that the coping resources of the whole region are available.

If there's a forest fire, there are normally 100 to 200 fire engines from San Bernardino and Los Angeles Counties and farther away coming in to fight the fire. If there is flooding, we usually can get resources in from outside the city. If there is a major structure fire, surrounding cities send engines. In the event of a major earthquake, though, the damage will most likely be to all contiguous cities and all the emergency equipment and personnel will be very busy within their own cities, so there will not be a concentration of people and equipment. We'll "be strictly on our own" and it will be the same with every citizen as each family will be on its own.

It is necessary to have a plan — a comprehensive one. What will all the people in the family do if the bad earthquake comes at night? Do you get out of the house, or stay in? If you get out of the house — usually your plan for exiting in case of a fire will also work for earthquakes — but it is important to stay in a safe place until everything that is going to fall outside has finished falling.

If the earthquake occurs when the family is scattered to school or work, how do you get back together — or do you try? Is it better to stay where you are than it is to try and drive through streets that are not passable? In your neighborhood, what resources are available to you? Is there someone close by with nursing skills or medical skills if anyone in your family is hurt? Is there someone who is good with carpentry if a part of your house needs propping up?

If your Neighborhood Watch group has completed its Neighborhood Skills Inventory and published it, you'll know whether help is conveniently available and this may minimize harm to yourself or your things. The city encourages all citizens to have an emergency store, often known as a R.E.D.I. pack of food, water, clothing, flashlights, portable radios, extra batteries, first aid items, and other items necessary to carry one through the first three days.

An earthquake is not something for which one can plan how he or she is going to repair the damages — about all we can plan for is being as self-sufficient as possible until the semblance of normalcy returns to the vicinity.

New 'useful' features added to local telephone directories

Three new features will make the local General Telephone directories more helpful and easier to use than ever before, officials said.

"We've added a few things to make the telephone directory even more useful to our customers in the communities of Ontario, Rancho Cucamonga, Upland, Mt. Baldy and Etiwanda," said Jack M. King, public affairs administrator for the utility.

Among the new additions are a listing for a Consumer Action Line to help customers resolve telephone-related problems; a table of contents which follows the Yellow Pages to aid in finding the correct category of item or service sought; and listings of prefixes for the new 818 area code which goes into effect on Jan. 4, and the recently initiated 619 area code.

Distribution of 96,500 copies of the new directories in the local area was completed last week.

"We are particularly pleased to offer the new Consumer Action Line," adds King. "It is designed to offer customers an avenue for resolving any problems which may still exist after regular company channels have been tried.

"After investing more than $75 million in Ontario area operations over the past two years to expand and modernize our equipment, the new Action Line helps to ensure our customers are receiving the quality of service they expect and deserve."

King outlined the procedure for obtaining service assistance which should be followed before calling the Consumer Action Line at 1-800-982-6347.

The first step is to call the 24-hour phone service repair number, 611. If trouble seems to be in the rental phone itself, and there is a plug on the end of the phone, the fastest service is available by taking the phone to the nearest GTE Phone Mart or Convenience Center.

Locally, GTE Phone Marts are located in the Montclair Plaza and at the intersection of Baseline and Archibald in Rancho Cucamonga. A Convenience Center is located at 207 W. D St., in Ontario.

These locations should also be used for starting, stopping or changing telephone service.

If you have a question about billing, however, the first step would be to call the local General Telephone business office at 983-1811.

"Any problem or request not resolved to the customer's satisfaction through these channels," notes King, "should then be directed to the Consumer Action Line which will be in operation Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m."

New telephone directories also contain the usual instructional pages; an eight-page survival guide covering first aid techniques and earthquake preparedness suggestions; a list of emergency call numbers in both English and Spanish; and Zip Code and area code information.

Check with local General Telephone business offices for information on ordering additional copies of local directories or copies of directories covering other areas.

For the first time, telephone customers will be charged for directories covering other areas.

500 to graduate from Upland High next week

By David Miller

Next week will be graduation time for some 500 students at Upland High School, as well as more than 800 eighth graders in the city's two junior high schools.

The high school's 1983 commencement will kick off the graduation celebrations, as the largest UHS graduating class in the last several years receives diplomas on Wednesday, June 15, in Highlander Stadium. Michael Stolte is the 1983 valedictorian, while Kari Carpenter and Pamela Cestone will serve as salutatorians.

Stolte and student body president David Grossberg will give speeches. The 1983 graduating class will be presented by senior class president Shannon Bradley, and students will receive their diplomas from Curtiss Bonneville of the Chaffey Joint Union High School District's board of trustees and Robert Erickson, assistant superintendent for the district.

There will also be a special memorial tribute to Anna Marie Bachoc, the UHS senior who was killed last April.

Pioneer and Upland junior high schools will hold their commencement ceremonies on Friday, June 17, at Chaffey High School's Gardiner Spring Auditorium.

Pioneer will lead off, holding its ceremony from 4 to 5:30 p.m. for some 450 eighth graders. The students were scheduled to spend a day at Knott's Berry Farm last Wednesday and Pioneer's annual graduation dance, a "semi-formal" affair, will take place on Thursday, June 16 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Michelle Williams and David Louis, student council presidents for the first and second semesters of the 1982-83 school year, will give the convocation and lead the flag salute. The girls' chorus and school band will also perform.

Upland Junior High will take over Gardiner Spring for its commencement beginning at 7 p.m. More than 350 students are expected to receive their diplomas. Student body presidents Mike Vicente (first semester) and Diana Hawkins (second) will speak.

The evening will also feature performances by the school chorus and band, which will perform a processional and recessional, as well as the national anthem.

There will also be a graduation dance for the school's eighth graders, on June 16 at the Magnolia Recreation Center in Upland.

Upland Junior High School had its day at Knott's Berry Farm on June 3.

45th anniversary heralded

A recognition dinner, held to honor Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Thornton, of Ontario, on the occasion of their 45th wedding anniversary, took place Sunday in the recreation room of the Chaparral Heights Mobil Home Park in Alta Loma.

Secretly planned and hosted by the couple's six children, the dinner was attended by more than 80 friends and relatives. The couple's oldest child, Nancy Nicholson, formerly of Upland, traveled from Hawaii to attend the celebration.

The highlight of the event was the renewal of the couple's vows by Rev. J. Ralph Wenger of the Brethern in Christ Church, Alta Loma.

Ray and Helen Thornton were married on June 5, 1938, in Lewiston, Me., Mrs. Thornton's hometown. The couple "fell in love" with the Ontario area during World War II, while Ray was on a furlough from the U.S. Navy. In June of 1952, with the promise of a job, the Thorntons moved to Pomona and Ray began work as a Journeyman Lineman with the Southern California Edison Company. They moved to Ontario in 1955 and remain there today.

Ray retired in 1979, after 26 years with Edison, and the couple now spend their time enjoying a variety of activities.

acting police chief Howard Seay, with the final parts of the REDI slide program — the projector and tape player to show them.

Club donates projector for use in police program

A final check from the New Uplanders Club presented to acting police Chief Howard Seay has provided enough funds to purchase a slide projector and tape recorder to add to the already donated slide program on earthquake preparedness.

The program, offered by the Upland Police Department through Neighborhood Watch, stresses awareness and preparation in dealing with a disaster.

The group had donated the funds for the slide program earlier in the year but discovered that many of the groups that checked out the program didn't have the correct type of projector or player.

So the New Uplanders came up with enough money to buy one that could be loaned out along with the slide program.

"This donation should prove very helpful in fostering awareness among the community," Seay said. "Now everyone who wishes to may take advantage of it."

Disabled, elderly to receive aid

Disabled and elderly homeowners and renters in San Bernardino County are being offered assistance in filing for property tax reimbursement or rental payments.

Assemblyman Bill Leonard, R-Redlands, said a Franchise Tax Board representative would be in his district office every Monday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. until the final date applications may be filed, Aug. 31.

Homeowner Assistance requires applicants be 62 years or older, disabled or blind. They must have lived in their own home as of Dec. 31, 1982, and total annual income must have been less than $12,000.

The same qualifications apply for Renter Assistance, except that applicants must have lived in a rented residence for at least a portion of 1982 and paid a monthly rent of more than $50.

The office is located at 1323 W. Colton Ave., Suite 101, Redlands.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council of the City of Upland will hold a public hearing on Monday, June 20, 1983, at 7:00 p.m., in the Council Chambers of the Upland City Hall, 460 N. Euclid Avenue, Upland, California 91786, to consider the following item:

— TEXT AMENDMENT NO. ZA-107 proposed amendment to the text of Part IV - Zoning Regulations, Article IX of the Upland Municipal Code (UMC), to amend Chapter 9490 presently entitled "Special Use Criteria" and containing no substantive provisions, to:

(a) Implement State Senate Bill 1534 (Mello, Chapter 1440 of the Statutes of 1982) pertaining to the establishment of a second dwelling unit as a conditional use and structure in Single Family Residential Zones; and
(b) Add a new title to Chapter 9490 - "Second Dwelling Unit in Single Family Residential Zones", setting forth therein the description and purpose, performance development standards, requirements for the issuance of a Conditional Use Permit and criteria therefor, and procedures for amendment to, variances from, and enforcement and appeal of petitions and plans in compliance with the minimum standards of said Chapter; and
(c) Amend Chapter 9430 "RS- Single Family Residential Development - General" to add a new sub-section 9430.051.140 to provide that all petitions for a second dwelling unit in a Single Family Residential Zone shall be subject to the granting of a Conditional Use Permit in accordance with Chapter 9430 of said UMC. Further, that such use and structure shall be in accordance with the regulations, provisions and standards of said proposed Chapter 9490 - "Second Dwelling Unit in Single Family Residential Zones."

(d) Amend Section 9402.200 "S" words, terms and phrases to add, in alphabetic order, the definition of "Second Dwelling Unit", as follows:
SECOND DWELLING UNIT: A detached or attached dwelling unit which provides complete, independent living facilities for one or more persons, inclusive of, but not limited to, permanent provisions for living, sleeping, eating, cooking, access and sanitation, on the same lot or parcel as the permitted primary dwelling.
This public hearing will be conducted pursuant to the provisions of Part IV - Zoning Regulations, Article IX of the Upland Municipal Code and Section 65500-65800 of the Government Code and Section 66451.3 of the Subdivision Map Act of the State of California.

All maps, environmental findings and other data pertinent to this proposed amendment shall be at the office of the City Clerk prior to the hearing. All persons interested in this proposal are invited to attend said public hearing and express their opinions for or against the project.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER
YOU ARE IN DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST, DATED April 11, 1980, UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER.
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON A PROPOSED DEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR THE CANYON RIDGE COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROJECT OF THE UPLAND COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY AND AN ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT RELATED THERETO AND OF THE ADOPTION AND AVAILABILITY FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION OF RULES IMPLEMENTING OWNER PARTICIPATION IN CONNECTION WITH SAID PROPOSED PLAN AND EXTENDING REASONABLE PREFERENCE TO PERSONS IN BUSINESS IN THE PROPOSED DEVELOPMENT AREA TO RE-ENTER BUSINESS WITHIN THAT AREA.
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at 7:00 p.m. on June 27, 1983, at the Council Chambers of Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California, a joint public hearing of the Council of the City of Upland and the Upland Community Redevelopment Agency will be held to consider a proposed development plan for the proposed Canyon Ridge Community Development Project Area within the City of Upland, the specific boundaries of which are set forth on Appendix "A" attached hereto.
Generally, the scope and objectives of said proposed development plan are as follows:
The Development Plan for the Canyon Ridge Community Development Project of the Upland Community Redevelopment Agency was prepared by said Agency and is in conformance to and controlled by the General Plan of the City of Upland and all other applicable federal, state, and local laws and ordinances. The plan is based upon the Preliminary Plan adopted by the Planning Commission of the City of Upland on March 24, 1983. The project covered by the plan, including streets, consists of approximately 350 acres. The objective of the plan is to eliminate blighting conditions (inadequate storm drains & streets) in the project area by providing public improvements of regional benefit, including storm drain facilities and arterial streets, thereby mitigating under utilization of land caused by inadequate public facilities of a regional nature.
The development plan described and depicts the project area, delineates development objectives and actions proposed for implementation thereof in the project area and delineates proposed public improvements. In addition, the plan covers methods for financing the project.
Any and all persons having any objections to said proposed development plan or who deny the existence of blight in the proposed project area, or the regularity of any of the prior proceedings, may appear before the Council of the City of Upland at the time, date and place set forth herein and show cause why said proposed development plan should not be adopted.
Notice also is given hereby that the Redevelopment Agency and the City Council will conduct a public hearing on an environmental impact report on the subject of said development plan at the time, date and place set forth above. Draft copies of said environmental impact report now are available at the Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California.
Notice is also given hereby that the Upland Community Redevelopment Agency has adopted rules to implement the operation of owner participation in connection with said proposed development plan and extending reasonable preference to persons in business in the development area and that said rules are available for public inspection at the Upland City Hall, 460 North Euclid Avenue, Upland, California.

ENTERTAINMENT & DINING GUIDE

I don't profess to be food critic but when someone mentions food I always try to be first in line. I love cooking it and I dearly love dining out. When a new restaurant opens I try to give them a couple weeks to settle in then I'll give them a try. Then this is what you get from me...my own opinion.

This past week we dined at Mr. Steak, not a new place but under new ownership.

I enjoyed the petite cut of sirloin that just melted in my mouth, Joe ordered the swordfish steak broiled perfectly to his satisfaction. For an appetizer we ordered the potato skins, served golden brown and loaded with melted cheddar cheese and crumbled bacon with the added touch of sour cream for dipping. All this was enhanced by a glass of our favorite wine. A most satisfying meal that has my wholehearted endorsement.

Mr. Steak serves delightful lunches as well as dinners, the steaks are all USDA choice. The cost of a meal won't put a big dent in your wallet and so many good things are offered you'll find your selection will be difficult.

Try them, you'll be glad I suggested Mr. Steak at 1130 N. Mountain in Upland.

The Iron Skillet at 805 N. Euclid in Ontario has a great track record for consistently good food served in a congenial atmosphere and above all the prices are exceptional.

The special for the month of June offers a teriyaki steak for $4.95 or the swiss steak for $3.45 served with a choice of soup or salad, potato or rice pilaf, vegetable and roll and butter. The nightly special is the succulent prime rib for only $5.95. The breakfasts served at the Iron Skillet will satisfy the most ravenous of appetites.

Whether you choose to enjoy breakfast, lunch, dinner or a late night supper the bill of fare will be sure to please you.

Mac Donuts, formerly Davids, located next to Mc Donalds at 9625 Foothill Blvd. in Rancho Cucamonga presents a sweet deal to donut lovers of all ages. Fifteen donuts for only $1.99 and if your church or community group orders 5 or more dozens they'll get a whopping 25% off. The only catch to this offer is...you must clip the coupon. So clip and enjoy!

Domino's Pizza at 1264 W. Foothill Blvd. in Upland is just a phone call away. The delivery area is limited so do call first, you might just luck out and be in their delivery area.

The coupon to clip will save you $2.00 on any 16 inch pizza whether you have it delivered or pick it up yourself. You'll really enjoy the mouth-watering pizza made with their own special sauce and natural cheeses and topped with your very favorite ingredients.

The phone number to call for ordering is 981-7555. Now that I have your minds on pizza, have you noticed what is happening at Pizza Chalet? First it's you buy one and get one for 17¢ then it's 14¢...What next! Maybe it'll be 4¢ or even 2¢. Just keep checking his ads, one never knows what that Keith will come up with next.

Pizza Chalet is at the corner of Foothill and Euclid in Von's shopping center in Upland. It might be a good idea to drop in and see what a guy like that looks like. Maybe he wears a halo for trying to feed the masses for a pittance. Take your coupon with you and make him an offer he can't refuse.

Until next week....Bon Appetit!!

FINE DINING

Wine tasting offered at several locations

By Joy Sommer

Just a few short years ago, vineyards stretched as far as the eye could see in Rancho Cucamonga. Names like Filippi, Mandalla, Thomas, Guasti, Brookside and Opici were almost a litany.

But with development, the land devoted to grapes steadily decreased, although the flavor of the wine still lingers in the tasting rooms that dot the area.

The Wine Institute, based in San Francisco, reported in 1981 that although in most areas wine acreage had increased, San Bernardino County saw a 50 percent decrease during the 10 year period since 1971.

With the exception of Mandalla, all other wineries maintain tasting rooms and retail outlets in the Rancho Cucamonga area.

Thomas, California's oldest winery, dominates the corner of Foothill Boulevard and Vineyard Avenue. Erected in 1839, the winery originally belonged to Don Tibericio Tapia, who was granted the land by Governor Alvarado of Baja.

John Rains later purchased the land for $18,000 and set out an additional 25,000 vines. The Cucamonga Winery then became the largest vineyard in Spanish-ruled territory.

The adobe walls of the original building still stand. Old storage tanks (14 of them), are also still in use. The tasting room and retail store are located there.

When the Thomas family purchased the winery in 1920, the traditions already established were continued. In 1967, the Filippi family, current

Paul Robertson

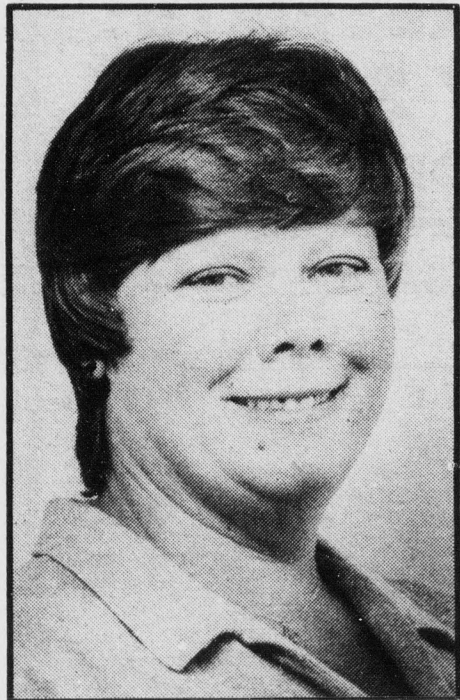

Upland High School

Upland High School PTSA has named Spanish instructor Paul Robertson as the Honorary Service winner for 1983.

He was selected, said PTSA president Joan Eddy, because of all the time he spends with his students outside of school, beyond his normal teaching hours, and his outstanding dedication to making a foreign language come alive for his students.

He also serves as unofficial school photographer for athletic events.

Sycamore Elementary

Juanita Partington

Jan Krueger

Two winners were named at Sycamore, Jan Krueger and Juanita Partington.

Krueger has served in a variety of board offices including news, bowling parliamentarian, president, historian and was on the telephone committee at Upland High School.

She has been very involved in AYSO soccer for the past eight years and with the Astros soccer league. She served on the Upland Elementary School Boundary Committee and has been a classroom aide for 1½ yrs. and a resource specialist for four years.

Partington has also been very involved throughout the community. She has served on PTA, was a team mother with AYSO, Little League and Pony League.

She has been involved with her daughter's swim team and has taught Catholic education classes at her church. She has been involved in the teaching field for 24 years from the college to elementary level. She is now a resource specialist.

Winners, on

By Joy Sommer

Each year, PTA's honor those people who have done an outstanding job of service to the youth of their community both in school settings and those outside.

"Honorary Service Award winners are not just people who volunteer at school," said Marsha Schwartz, Foothill District, "They are people who extend themselves in all areas — school, scouts, church, sports — where ever there is a need. They are the well-rounded volunteer who doesn't place limits on what they will do for the youth of their community."

Each school determines who, if anyone, will receive the award. Some schools honor more than one, others traditionally only one. How the criteria is judged differs from school to school, Schwartz said, but the basic premise of service to youth is maintained.

All the people honored this year have donated more time and effort than can be mentioned here, Schwartz pointed out, but space limitations make only the briefest summaries possible.

"We feel the recognition is important but probably if you asked, none of them would care if anyone knew who they were," Schwartz said. "They don't do it for recognition, they do it because they care."

Sierra Vista

Paula Kittilson was the choice of Sierra Vista School. She was commended for her work with AYSO where she served on the nominating committee and organized picture day.

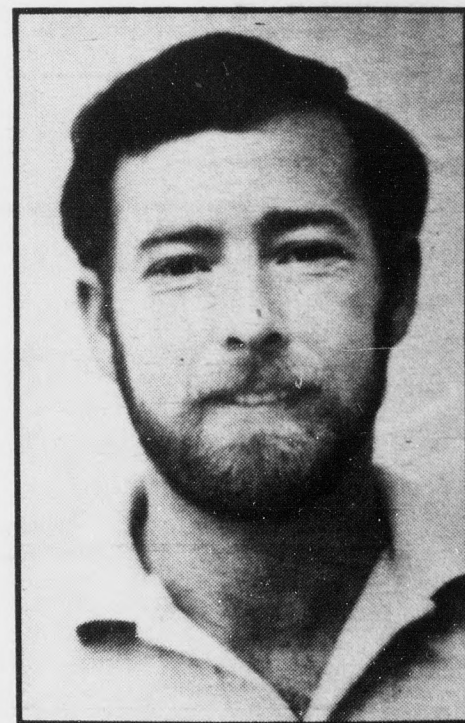

She also donated a lot of time as a volunteer instructional aide, with the Sierra Vista PTA, and was a scorekeeper for the National Little League. She also was a team mother in both soccer and little league.

Upland Elementary

Frank Dixon, a fulltime working father, got the nod from Upland Elementary for his contributions to youth.

He spent numerous hours to help in classrooms, on a variety of afterschool activities, on the site council and was active in PTA activities.

According to the school principal, unlike most fathers, he actually volunteered to help in his child's classroom and when the school hosted potlucks, he brought dishes he had cooked himself.

Frank Dixon

Pioneer Junior H

Pioneer Junior High had three winners: Sharon Paine and Donna Hibbard and school. She has been a team mother three times for AYSO softball.

She has also served as treasurer of the finance committee, as a room mother, aide and Boundary Change Committee for two year.

She has also been a Blue Bird leader for Hibbard has been an ASYO board comm

Citrus Elementary

Linda Johnson was honored by Citrus Elementary for her involvement with children in all areas.

She is a fifth grade teacher at Citrus, past secretary of Citrus Little League and has taught swimming at Chaffey High School.

She has also been very involved with Pop Warner Football and served as vice president and program director of Citrus PTA.

Linda Johnson

Cabrillo Elementary

Toni Bauter

Toni Bauter, who was also honored by Foothill Council, was selected by Cabrillo School PTA.

She is a member of Cabrillo PTA and has held numerous board positions. Bauter has served on the school site council, as Brownie co-leader and as a CCD instructor at St. Anthony's. She has been both a team mother and divisional team mother for AYSO. She has also served as assistant coach for girl's softball and is also a volunteer aide.

Donna Hibbard

Valencia Elementary

Jean Williams and Candy Sears were co-recipients of Valencia's Honorary Service Awards.

Williams, a sixth grade teacher at the school, has devoted many extra hours of her own time to the student council, organizing afterschool track meets and has been very active in PTA.

Williams was sponsor/ coordinator for the district track meet for several years. She is also active in local politics.

Sears, a longtime PTA volunteer, has served a vice president and has been in charge of ways and means. She also served as a Cub Scout leader and has been active in local soccer.

Upland Junior High

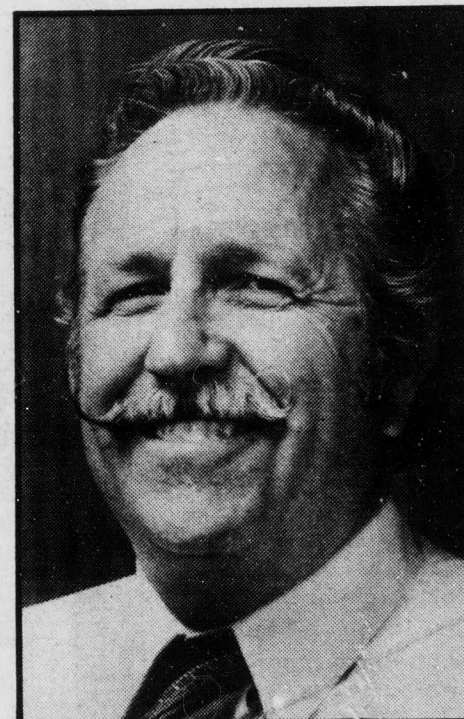

Upland Junior High School has selected Tamara Jordan. She has been active in PTA for about 10 years and has served in numerous offices.

She is also credited with starting the JOY volunteer program in the district. She has also been active in the Blue Birds.

Baldy View Elementary

Leonora Forsen

Neil Warner

Baldy View Elementary selected Leonora Forsen and Neil Warner as the recipients of the awards for this year.

Forsen has served on the PTA board for several years and helps out where ever she's needed anywhere in the school.

She is also active in church functions, initiated the Good Citizen Award at the school and helps to find volunteers to help other teachers in the school.

Warner spends lots of hours outside of school working with the children. He teaches children woodworking, sportsmanship, takes groups up to the mountains and instructs them in the proper use of guns, and takes them to church with him.

He has also always made the children welcome in his home at any time to talk.

'Brigadoon' at the Mummers

"Brigadoon," a musical-comedy about a town in Scotland, will be the Fontana Mummers Community Theatre's final show of the 1982-83 season.

Directed by Dennis Michaels, the play had an initial run at the Grand Hotel in Anaheim. The play will run on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays beginning June 3 through the 25 at the Mummer's new theatre, 8443 Nuevo, Fontana.

New Upland-Thrift manager

Robert L. Corbett has been named the new manager of Upland-Thrift, California office of Avco Financial Services (AFS). The office is located at 886 W. Foothill and is one of 131 such Avco facilities in the state.

Corbett, born in Orangeburg, S.C., joined the company in November 1980, as an extra trainee in San Diego. Most recently he served as associate manager in the Canoga Park office of AFS.

McNamara to address graduates

John McNamara, manager of the California Angels, will speak at the second annual Baccalaureate Mass and Breakfast for high school graduates who are members of St. Joseph's Parish, Upland.

All graduates, including mid-term graduates, and their parents have been invited to the Baccalaureate Mass at 9 a.m. on Saturday to be celebrated by the Rev. Peter Vavro, pastor.

John McCarthy, mayor of Upland and a parishioner of St. Joseph's, was scheduled to make a presentation to McNamara on behalf of the city of Upland, but McCarthy was hospitalized recently and is recovering from surgery after the removal of one-third of one of his lungs.

When the Angels named McNamara as the club's 10th manager, it marked a homecoming of sorts. He served as a coach for the Angels in 1978.

McNamara, a former minor league catcher, launched his managerial career at age 26. He worked nine seasons as a minor league skipper including pennant winning stops with Southern League entries Mobile and Birmingham before joining Oakland as a coach in 1968.

Base station meeting slated

Doctor's Hospital of Montclair will hold a base station meeting on Tuesday at the hospital and is open to all paramedics and mobile intensive care nurses in the area.

For information, call Carol Petty at 625-8307.

Slimnastics class scheduled

A new session of Slimnastics, a body conditioning program for women, begins June 6 through the West End YMCA.

Slimnastics is a complete exercise program that incorporates stretching, toning and aerobic exercises. Also included in the program is a relaxation period for stress reduction. This class is designed for women of all ages and fitness levels.

The program is held from 9 to 10:15 a.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, beginning the week of June 6 and continuing for seven-weeks.

YMCA members are charged $15 for the program, while registration fee for non-members is $25.

For more information call the YMCA at 986-5847.

Upland Coin Club to meet

A talk by Sally Marx on "Odd and Curious Monies," will highlight the next meeting of the Upland Coin Club. The meeting takes place beginning at 8 p.m. on June 18 at the Magnolia Recreation Center, 651 W. 15th St., Upland. Marx, a long-time coin collector who has won numerous awards for her coin exhibits, will have a large display of odd and unusual monies with her during her talk.

The Upland Coin Club meets every third Saturday of the month at the Magnolia Recreation Center. Membership is open anyone who has an interest in coin collecting. Parking and admission to the monthly meetings are free and open to the public.

For more information, call 984-9698.

Weight control classes planned

Human Ecology and Resources, a non-profit organization dedicated to human potential, will begin offering a new series of weight control classes on June 10 at the organization's office at 417 W. E St., Ontario.

The courses will utilize behavior modification, self-hypnosis, biofeedback and psychological exercises for weight and stress control and will be held at various hours throughout the day.

Fee for the four-week course is $20. Pre-enrollment is advised in order to insure a convenient day and time. For more information call 988-8712.

GTE charges for books

Because of rising costs, General Telephone of California announced that beginning June 1 it will start charging for all customer-requested non-local telephone books. Customers will continue to receive local directories free of charge.

According to the Santa Monica-based utility company, public libraries and school and university libraries will be exempt from any costs. In addition, users of WATS and foreign exchange service will receive free books covering all calling areas to which they subscribe.

Last year, citing increased operating costs, GTE

prestige and quality

Genuine Top Grain

Leather

Nothing quite compares to the look and the feel of top grain leather. Genuine leather appeals to 5 major senses - sight, touch, smell, good taste and economy. In the beginning fine leather does cost more than ordinary vinyl, but considering the years of wear and beauty it gives, leather costs less. It breathes so it won't make you warm; it never retains odors... seams won't tear, color won't fade, scuffs and scratches melt into the surface. The more you use it, the more beautiful it gets... simply dust or wipe with soap and water. In addition to the leather, this Easy Rest "Wallglider" recliner has quality construction features like kiln-dried hardwood frames and cushions plumped with polyester/dacron fill.

Surgery at home was common

By John H. Nicholson

Not long after I got a baby sister, Mildred, in 1918, we moved to a big house at 889 Vernon Drive, in Upland. That is a street that runs west from Euclid, close to the north side of the old Pacific Electric Railway tracks, now between Ninth Street and Arrow Route (at that time, 10th Street). Our part of Vernon Drive, accessible only from San Antonio Avenue, was, and still is, unpaved.

In addition to the house and garage, which are still intact, Pop had about an acre of citrus trees, west of the house. He grew peanuts in the spaces between the rows of trees.

I remember well a few details about living there. Mom and Pop had a cow, which produced more milk than we could use. A Mrs. Torpey, living just south of the railway on the west side of San Antonio Avenue, wanted one quart per day.

Mom stitched up a cloth bag which would hold a quart bottle of milk, and put a shoulder strap on it. My daily task was to deliver to Mrs. Torpey. I chose my own peculiar route.

I went west to San Antonio Avenue, into the east gutter, then through the culvert which carried rainwater under the railroad, and on, to Mrs. Torpey's. Looking at the culvert today, I must have been rather stubby to make it.

Still, with excess milk, Pop approached the mother of a large family, just north of us, on 10th Street. She advised him, "No, we don't need it. The kids would just drink it up and waste it."

John H. Nicholson is an Upland resident who here chronicles his family's history in the West Valley.

Glancing backward

One day, Pop borrowed a horse and small cultivator from Grandpa Hawthorne, to work up the ground around his trees and peanuts. I insisted on riding the horse, and all went well for a while.

As dark approached, we went through the back yard. The clothesline was just right to catch me under the chin. Off I went, landing in the dirt, face down, with a mouth full of it. No more horse riding for me for a while.

Mom and Pop had a four cylinder Dodge Bros. auto, at that time. While Pop worked on it one day, in the home garage, I hovered around, pointing, poking, and being a general nuisance.

Cars in those days produced spark for their spark plugs from a thing called a Magneto. It put out a real, but harmless spark, of around 15,000 volts. Exasperated with me, Pop asked if I wanted to help. I did.

He said, "Here, hold the end of this spark plug wire," and I did. He turned the engine over with the crank, and when that spark plug should have fired, I got the full effect. Nothing serious, but I was shocked. I suddenly found something else to do where my help wasn't needed.

I was four years old when we moved to Long Beach for a few months, where I entered kindergarten. While there, an energetic salesman did his best to talk Pop into buying five acres of crop land on top of Signal Hill, for $1500. But Pop was not to be hoodwinked by this "city slicker."

A year later, oil was discovered under Signal Hill, and it soon became a mass of producing wells. Pop brushed that off, saying, "I never wanted to be rich. I'd be happy, if I could just always reach into my pocket and come out with the right change."

We returned to Upland when I was aged five, moving into an old house on the north side of Ninth Street, about 600 feet west of Mountain Avenue. Just across Ninth Street, was another of those early day Citrus Packing Sheds, on a lemon grove owned by the Weiland family. The area was all citrus, then. Today, it is all industrial.

It was soon decided that my sister, Mildred, and I, should have our tonsils and adenoids removed. Dr. A. L. Weber made a Saturday morning house call, and one at a time, laid us on the kitchen table. Using gauze, soaked in ether, held over our noses, as an anesthetic, the surgery was soon over.

Ruttman traded Upland for Big Lick

Scott Flynn

Joe Ruttman pilots the Levi Garrett Pontiac through Turn Nine at Riverside Raceway.

By Louis Brewster

Two years ago Joe Ruttman was another of the countless Upland commuters. However, his work routine was slightly different than the others who crowd the San Bernardino Freeway on a daily basis.

Ruttman was flying back-and-forth across the country to his job. He would leave midweek to return late Sunday or early morning, but the destination would change from week to week.

Those were the perils of a Southern California racer competing on the NASCAR Grand National circuit. It's strictly a Southern show with few ventures outside Dixie.

Not only was the commuting expensive, but it had a definite effect on Ruttman's racing. Something had to give, and it soon became apparent it would have to be the Upland home.

At the start of the 1982 season, Ruttman went east to scout a place for his family. As soon as the school year end, wife Harpo and daughters Shawn, Carrie and Nicki were off to the South to rejoin Joe.

There are no regrets a year later. Ruttman is among the top drivers on the circuit in the Levi Garrett ride and his family has adapted to life in North Carolina, the unofficial NASCAR center.

Big Lick is a long way from Upland, and not just in mileage.

With all the Ruttmans in attendance, Big Lick's population swells to "about 25." Big Lick consists of a restaurant and a barber shop. For life's other amenities, Oakboro's two gas stations and grocery store are just down the road.

"The biggest change is the slower pace of living, it's just so much slower," said Harpo. "It's totally different than Upland and/or California."

Ruttman's career has gone considerably faster. Although he's still in search of his elusive first NASCAR win, Ruttman is in the thick of the points race.

Despite his 34th place finish Sunday in the Budweiser 400,

Lovitt's last career change: teaching to retirement

By Dennis Arp

When Mary Pollock stepped down as the Alta Loma High School girls' basketball coach in 1979, Harley Lovitt stepped up from his freshman boys' job and assumed an all new position.

A lack of girls' coaching experience may or may not limit the effectiveness of boys' coaches who make the change. For Lovitt, the transition was smooth. The Braves won a CIF girls' basketball title in 1980.

But then Lovitt has never shied away from the shock of the new and has seldom kept it from working to his advantage. For a guy who has spent 29 years in the same school district, Lovitt has been anything but stationary.

Lovitt first came to the Chaffey District in 1955 when he helped open Upland High School. Eight years later, construction on Alta Loma High was finished and Lovitt was ready to help another new school open its doors.

In addition, he's been ready to take on new coaching duties, switching easily from football to basketball and from basketball to badminton.

Now, after 30 years as a physical education teacher and 27 as a coach, Lovitt is ready to move on. The educator, whose trim physique belies his 55 years, has announced that this school year will be his last.

"Thirty years is enough," Lovitt says as he relaxes on the ALHS campus that has been his place of business since 1963. "I could have gone another five years, but I recently sold some property and I'm able to move on now."

It's been two years since Lovitt moved on from coaching, but the impact he had on Upland and Alta Loma students is undeniable. Discipline has been the cornerstone of his technique.

"A lot of kids have gone through here and thought he was a little hard on them," says ALHS athletic director Mike Kettle, who has been a colleague of Lovitt's for 15 years. "Then they come back and say, 'I'm glad you were.'"

"I think discipline is the one area where he was strongest. It was evident in the teams he coached. I happen to be that kind of coach and it takes that kind of person to get the troops to rally around."

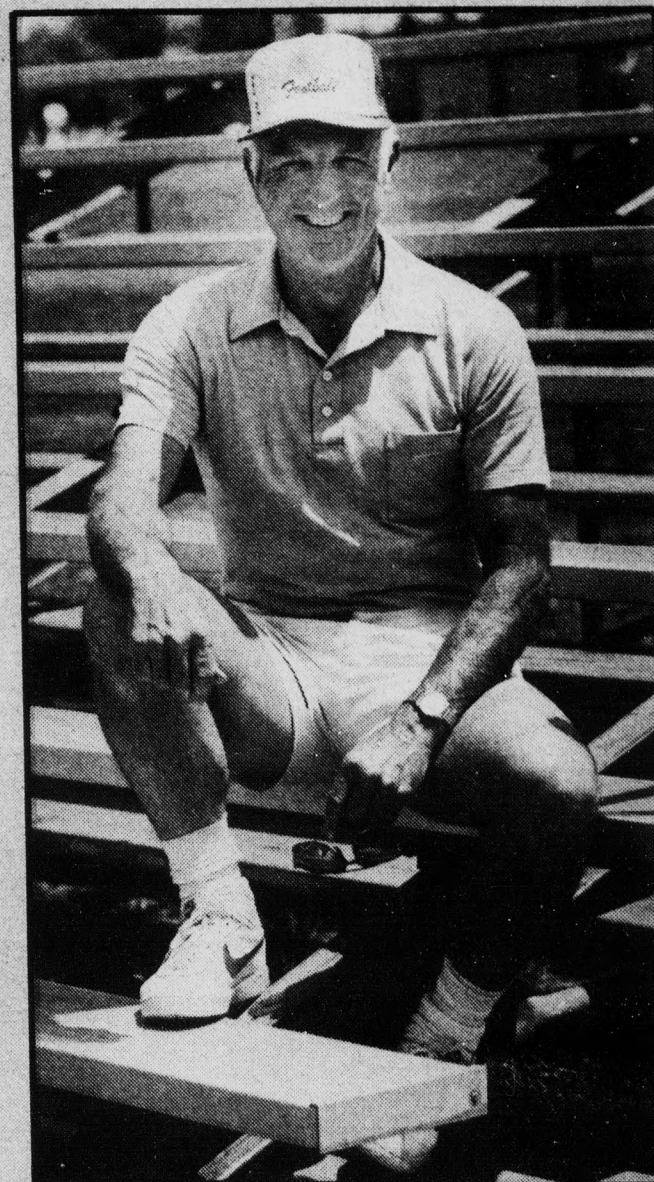

"I think with discipline you can sometimes overcome a lack of talent. His girls' basketball team had both."

Lovitt's first venture into coaching girls took some adjusting, but the veteran coach treated his new pupils the same way he did the boys' basketball and football players who'd come before them.

"Basically, I treated them like a boys' squad," says Lovitt. "One of the reasons girls' athletics have accelerated at such great speed is because men coaches came in and treated the players like boys."

"The change was mostly emotional. We had a very young team that first year but the talent was better than the freshman boys' team. The girls just weren't used to strict rules."

Dean Smothers, who was a member of Alta Loma's first P.E. staff and is now personnel director for the district, says Lovitt's style might have been misinterpreted, at least at first, by some of his athletes.

"He's a kind of no-nonsense coach and that tends to offend people," says Smothers. "But despite the fact he comes across as being harsh, he does have a love for the kids."

"Harley is a very intense coach. What he expects is that all the participants give their all, and he tends to get that from them."

Lovitt's intense association with athletics was nurtured during a baseball and football playing career that took him from El Monte High School to Citrus Junior College and then to the University of Redlands.

His teaching days began in 1953 at Upland Junior High, two years before his move to Upland High. He spent three years as a Highlanders' assistant coach to Jerry Bell and three more years (1958-60) as the head coach.

"I was a little inexperienced for the job but we didn't do too badly," Lovitt says of his first head coaching job, which began when he was 29.

'He's a kind of no-nonsense coach and that tends to offend people. But despite the fact he comes across as being harsh, he does have a love for the kids. Harley is a very intense coach. What he expects is that all the participants give their all, and he tends to get that from them.'

Dean Smothers

Lovitt's teams compiled a 15-10-1 record.

But when district expansion brought a school to Alta Loma, Lovitt was ready to start anew. He bought a five-acre ranch (a parcel he recently sold to a developer who plans to build patio homes) and used his carpentry skills to construct his own home.

After spending two years coaching freshman football, Lovitt joined the varsity staff of Forrest Anderson as offensive coordinator, a position he enjoyed holding for five years.

"I love watching games from upstairs," he says. "I'd never stand on the sidelines. Upstairs, you're isolated; you can observe everything and get the total picture. It's a beautiful view to help you call the shots."

It was as offensive coordinator that Lovitt worked with Rocky Long, the player he calls the best athlete he coached. Long quarterbacked the Braves to the CIF finals in 1969 and is now the defensive coordinator at the University of Wyoming.

The best female athlete Lovitt coached? Shelda Arceneaux. "As a freshman, she came on and played like a senior," he says. "We wouldn't have won the CIF championship without her."

Lovitt is proud of the three football, three badminton and two basketball league titles he has been associated with. He is especially proud of the attention he gave to badminton, a sport he still plays regularly.

"That speaks for the fact that he does love competition," Smothers relates. "It doesn't have to be varsity football for him to enjoy the game and teach the skills. He's a good teacher and coaching is teaching."

Lovitt says he misses being close to the competition, but he won't have trouble filling his post-teaching days. □

Final AYSO signups set

The final registration session for the Upland Region 32 AYSO soccer program has been scheduled for Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Pioneer Junior High School, 245 W. 18th St.

Boys and girls aged 5 to 18 are eligible for play. A new K Division has been started for 5 and 6-year-olds.

Interested players should bring a birth certificate. Seven and 8-year-old players will be required to try out on Saturday.

Entry fee is $30 for the first child in a family and $25 for each additional child. Uniforms and pictures are included in the cost.

Additional information is available by calling 982-6200.

Five Uplanders make all-league

Upland's Steve Bast, who pitched and hit Damien High School to a second-place finish in the Baseline League, was named co-Most Valuable Player of the circuit along with Phil Harrison of league-champion Glendora.

Upland High School landed four on the first team. A pair of junior pitchers, Rick Davis (3-1, 2.12 ERA) and Dave Vondran (3-3, 1.56 ERA), were selected along with shortstop Darrin Monroe (.333) and pitcher-first baseman Chris Wax (3-0, 3.09 ERA, .368).

Sophomore right fielder Kris Rosa (.333) was named to the second team and third baseman Mark Divincenzo an honorable mention pick.

Ruttman is seventh in the points standings. His 1,713 total is about 200 shy of leader Bobby Allison midway through 30-race season.

His earnings this year total $138,535, ninth best in NASCAR this year.

And by winning the pole position at Dover four weeks ago, Ruttman qualified for the world's richest race — the Busch Clash. The field for the Clash, composed entirely of pole winners, races 50 miles for a purse totaling almost $250,000.

"Being in the Busch Clash is important, it was a major goal," Ruttman said. "It shows that we're capable of winning a race."

By not having to commute, Ruttman knows his problems will be solved sooner than he if still lived in Upland.

It's not uncommon for Grand National drivers to relocate in the South. Dick Brooks left his Portersville home in Northern California to be closer to the action, Benny Parsons migrated from Detroit and Terry LaBonte from Corpus Christi, Texas.

"You just have to be there," Ruttman said of the move. "You lose a lot of the closeness, the rapport that you need to make the team go. By not being here, I missed out on that."

But Ruttman, who was raised in Ontario, also misses California.

"You know what they say about taking the boy out of the country," Ruttman said. □

Surgery at home was common in early 1900s

Ice cream was prescribed to relieve the resultant tenderness. This kept Pop busy for parts of a few days, turning the crank on the old wooden tub ice cream freezer.

In those days, simple surgery like ours, or even childbirth, was not considered to require hospitalization. But, we did have a hospital. It was built in 1907, at the southeast corner of 10th Street (now Arrow) and San Antonio Avenue, known simply as San Antonio Hospital.

It was the dream of Dr. William Craig, who came to North Ontario in 1895. As he traveled by horse and buggy, from Chino to Etiwanda, each home he visited became a temporary hospital. Making his own dressings from sheets guided by lantern light, bedrooms were used as delivery rooms and kitchens served as surgeries. No one knew better than he that his community needed a hospital, and no one contributed more toward the fulfillment of that need. The new facility even included a nursing school.

Open house will feature quilts

Residents of Mt. San Antonio Gardens, a life-care retirement community in Claremont, will share some of their treasures and interests with friends and guests on Saturday and Sunday at the fourth annual Quilt Fair, Hobby Show and Open House from 1 to 4 p.m.

BUY AN ENERGY EFFICIENT REFRIGERATOR.

Get Cold Cash.

It's important to look at operating costs and efficiency when shopping for a new refrigerator/freezer.

Why? Because the average unit accounts for up to 35% of your electricity bill.

If you're an Edison customer, Edison will help defray the cost of a new energy-efficient model by paying you $50 or $100 upon proof of purchase of any qualifying model.

Models 12 cubic feet or larger which are 20% more efficient than the applicable State Standard qualify for a $50 incentive. And if the model uses 960 kilowatt hours per year or less, it earns an additional bonus of $50.

To help you shop for your new appliance, or to help you wisely use the refrigerator you now have, we have prepared a new booklet, "Cold Cash." This book gives you tips on wise use and includes a list of refrigerators that are eligible for these cash incentives.

The booklet is available from your local Edison office, at participating dealers or by calling

Edison toll-free 1-800-952-5062.

You have the power to hold down your electricity bills. Make your next refrigerator an energy-efficient model. And get cold cash from us. Meantime, thanks for all your conservation efforts.

attending the college.

He has centered his studies around the Indians who once lived in this area.

Symonds, who plans to be a teacher someday and will be attending the University of Southern California next year with majors in English and archeology, has been involved with digs at the Chaffey College "Alvacado Grove" site just north of the college.

"Dr. McAllister is an outstanding teacher," Symonds said. "She is one of the most renowned authorities in this area. And she's a real dynamo. This lady skis, sails, writes and still goes out on digs."

McAllister has helped Symonds get material published, including two books of poetry, he said. In fact, Symonds recently won the National Collegiate Poetry Contest. Not bad for a student at a two-year school who had to go up against 1,000 entries from students at four-year school.

Symonds said his studies have found the Indians who lived in the area were Cawia, Gabriellano and Serrano. Most dwelled in the Cucamonga area, Symonds said.

"It's kind of a neat thing," Symonds said of his studies. "Dr. McAllister has shown us you don't have to go to Arizona to find great Indian artifacts."

Symonds claimed Indians in the area had "intricate trade routes" to wheel and deal their shell beads, coastal chure used for making knives and other wares.

That route extended to the Mohave Desert up to the Colorado River.

Some of the early weapons uncovered include devices which evolved into bows and arrows.

Symonds said the area where Carnelian Street and Vineyard Avenue currently split was an Indian dwelling area for thousands of years.

One of the reasons Indians lived in this area was the abundance of rabbit, squirrels and birds which provided food. Indians were also "excellent food processors" and they knew what time of year to produce yucca and other foods necessary for survival.

The climate was also pleasant for the Indians and springs ran throughout the area.

Most of the Indians who lived in the area were not hunters, according to Symonds. But though they appeared to be excellent food processors and storers, more and more points are being found to show a good deal of hunting was done nonetheless.

Symonds is also interested in the unique way in which Indians communicated with the gods. By turning stones over, the lighter side would be exposed and by arranging thousands in different patterns, pictures for the gods could be produced, Symonds said.

Girl hopes lucky socks will help her win

By Patricia Coladonato

Stephanie Baldwin is a racer who is totally devoted to her sport.

For the last two years, the young Rancho Cucamonga resident has spent at least 10 hours a day honing her skills on a makeshift track outside her home. But despite her obsession, Stephanie has yet to test her talents in a race with other drivers. She enjoys racing but, until a few weeks ago, she didn't want to take part in an organized race, Stephanie's mother, Kathi Baldwin, explained.

What changed Stephanie's mind was the chance to compete against 200 other racers in Rancho Cucamonga's biggest summer sporting event — the city-sponsored Big Wheels Race at Vineyard Park.

"I know I'm going to win," Stephanie said with the air of a seasoned professional.

And, like a professional, the 5-year-old elucidates the exact reasons why she feels she will be victorious.

"My lucky socks with ruffles will help me win," she said. "And my big wheel will be faster than anybody else's because the front tire has a flower on it."

This Saturday's Big Wheel race marks the third time the city's Community Services Department has hosted such an event. Each year the race has attracted upwards of 200 kids, some who have traveled from as far as San Dimas and San Diego to compete for a chance at being crowned Grand Champion of Big Wheels.

As knowledge of the race has grown, so has the sophistication and determination of its competitors.

"We're finding now that the kids are beginning to modify their big wheels for the race," Kevin Evans, recreation supervisor for the Lions Park Community Center, said. "They're putting tape on their wheels or roughing them up with razors for better traction. Their outfits are changing too," Evans noted. "Last year some of the kids wore knee pads and goggles and I expect even more will be wearing them this year."

The race, which is run on two circular tracks, features three divisions for competitors: division one for the 2- to 3-year-olds, division two for the 4- to 5-year-olds and division three for 6- to 7-year-olds.

Elimination rounds are staged in each division until only a handful of racers remain.

"The competition can get pretty tough," said Evans. "But what's funny is that the adults get more involved than the kids. They really cheer for their kids and even plot out strategies for the kid to use in the turns. It's really something."

Last year's winners included Gary Scheidmantle from Covina, Jason McFarland from San Bernardino and Scott Bull from Rancho Cucamonga.

"The first year we had a little girl win the 4 to 5 age group division," Evans said. "We usually have about a 50-50 split between boys and girls but last year the boys carried home all the trophies."

Meanwhile, Stephanie, outfitted on her pink and blue Power Puff big wheel, hopes to add her name to the small but growing list of Grand Champions.

A dainty, blond-haired girl with large blue eyes who appears slightly out-of-place on the noisy machines, Stephanie refuses to let her size deter her ambitions.

Many places for wine tasting

owners of this piece of history, purchased the winery and worked at restoring it to a condition as much like the original as possible.

No wine is produced at the winery. Wine bearing the Thomas label is produced at the Filippi Winery in Mira Loma using, for the most part, locally grown grapes.

The winery is open daily, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., for tasting and sight-seeing. Wines and champagnes are available under the Old Rancho and Thomas labels.

Opici, tucked up in the foothills near Chaffey College on Highland, is probably one of the better kept secrets around. Much of the wine is sold out of the area but more and more people are discovering what the winery has to offer.

Joseph Opici started his Cucamonga winery in 1933. It has always been a family-owned and operated business, and the daughter of present owner Mary Opici Nimmergut, lives in the family home on the site.

Much of their wine is distributed in the east. Their tasting room is Guasti's Italian Vineyard Co., Inc. (established in the late 1880s).

Brookside, now owned by a group of six private investors, continues to produce more than 100 varieties of wines under both the Vache and Brookside labels.

All the Vache wines are varietal, vintage-dated and produced from grapes grown in Temecula.

Brookside's tasting room in Guasti is open daily. Call 986-9377 for times.

Pierre Biane Winery is occupying the site of a winery that has been bottling since 1870. It is also one of the few which bottles on the premises. Of special interest is its champagne, which is made from some local grapes.

The tasting room is open daily, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. A variety of domestic and imported wines are for sale and sampling. For the uninitiated, wine tasting can be a pleasant and educational way to spend a sunny afternoon. Discovering the rich wine heritage of the local area is not only enlightening, it also helps in understanding the place that we choose to make our home. □

$50,000 donation presented to SACH

The Auxiliary of San Antonio Community Hospital presented a $50,000 check to John L. Towers, administrator — a culmination of a year of activities and fund-raisers — during the auxiliary's annual meeting last week at the hospital.

Of the donation, $5,000 was designated for the on-going support of the Tel-Med program and $45,000 to the Hospital Building Fund.

The $50,000 was raised by the auxiliary through its various projects and the operation of the hospital Gift Shop. Funds came from the following sources: $41,965.25, Gift Shop; $3,491.46, rummage sale; $463.45, Silver Tea; $2,228.47, holiday boutique; $1,426.37, Trump Brunch; $125.00, discretionary fund; and $300, fashion show donation.

Mrs. Bruce Keeling presided over the annual meeting when members were recognized for their hours of service both as a group and individually. They worked on 40 different projects during the year with 645 members (an all-time high in membership) donating 22,013 hours.

In acknowledging the service, Towers referred to the hours of "time, talent and caring, while performing their services for San Antonio Community Hospital."

Jessie Dwight had the most hours on a cumulative basis with 3,500 hours. Next was Frances Williamson with 2,500 hours, followed by Helen Beardslee, Mary Martin and the Rancho Cucamonga Woman's Club with 2,000 hours.

Volunteers giving a total of 1,500 hours each include: Jeanne Cherbak, Kathryn Conn, Maze Conway, Angelic Duran, Lolita Hawthorne, Fern Hennessy, Grace Shank, Deanna Thompson and Helen Webber.

Those giving 1,000 hours were: Grace Braatz, Harriett Crum, Marie Mackintosh, Lois Rawle and Deanna Thompson.

Giving 500 hours each were Marie Amick, Frances Barks, Cornelia Born, Pauline Campbell, Harriet Clark, Teresa Colcoccia, Mildred Henderson, Betsy Keeling, Ann Nistico, Irene Nugent, Salina Ritchey, Dorothy Sherwood, Margaret Stewart, Ada Taylor, Marilyn White, Dessie Whitten and Erma Wucherpfennig.

Volunteers who have accumulated 200 hours are: Val Cavanaugh, Jolene Cichella, Ruth Crutchfield, Jayne Duvall, Gladys Flum, Marjorie Franks, B.J. Genung, Cris Hall, Karen Hudnall, Joann Kirk, Merna Mack, Edna Merriman, Phyllis Page, Barbara Rusche, Eleanor Smith, Lila Snider, Cecile Stamper and Fay Vorheier.

Giving 100 hours are: Genevieve Anderson, Iris Anson, Emily Atencio, Eileen Barnes, Alicia Beggs, Dorothy Bell, Margaret Berch, John Borba Jr., Noralie Clinton, Susan Darquea, Ruth Duncan, Jewel Flippin, Mura Glenn, Virginia Hughes, Myrtle Johnstone, Anne Koniar, Marie Koop, Nancy Laird, Claire Lewis, Eileen Muller, Mary Ostroff, Gladys Tipton, Mary Wiles, Ethel Winger, and Charlotte Zeigler.

Using a candlelight ceremony, Mrs. Joseph Schechter installed the following 1983-84 officers and chairmen: Bruce Keeling, president; George A. Crum, first vice president; Wilfred A. MacSween, second vice president; Jerald Laird, third vice president; Allan G. Smith, secretary; Lawrence J. Wells Fargo Bank to open new branch Wells Fargo's newest Southern California banking office, featuring the latest in customer-oriented automation, merchandising and staff "re-engineering" in a unique environment, will open for business June 6 at 813 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland.

The Upland office will be headed by Debbie Hart, assistant vice president and manager, who has been with Wells Fargo for 18 months after 10½ years of experience with other financial institutions. The Upland office actually is a relocation of Wells Fargo's Ontario branch, which is being closed.

"We believe we can serve our customers better at this new office which has a myriad of customer-oriented features in addition to plenty of free parking," Mrs. Hart said.

The public is invited to an open house and ribbon-cutting ceremony at 10:30 a.m. June 25. A highlight of the event will be the appearance of the bank's famous stagecoach, which will be available for rides. Civic dignitaries and bank officials are scheduled to take part in the event.

"The most striking first impression of the office is that it doesn't look like a traditional bank," Mrs. Hart commented. "It is designed with the customer in mind."

The office has three distinctive service areas.

"Customers may choose to approach a 'greeter,' who will determine their specific needs and direct them to an automatic teller machine, personal or business banking officer, customer service representative, information stop or a brochure rack," she said.

"Or, customers may go directly to the information stops where Apple computers will explain specific products and services. The third, or transaction area, is designed for fast, efficient service through the use of automatic teller machines. Highly trained customer service representatives will be available for exception transactions and for product information," she said. "This is an entirely new concept in selling banking services."

The greeter concept helps pinpoint customer needs. IBM computers provide graphs illustrating product investment yields, comparisons of investment term and yield trade-offs, examples and analysis models of tax-deferred tax-free investments, and comparisons of Wells Fargo rates and fees with those of selected competitors.

Customers can also place buy and sell orders for common stocks directly by a special telephone linked to Wells Fargo's discount brokerage service.

The Upland office is designed to bring personal service to customers by specially trained personnel whose capabilities are enhanced by latest information technology, Mrs. Hart said.

Twenty-four hour banking is available by means of three automatic teller machines.

Display cases feature items of historical interest from Upland and neighboring cities. Wells Fargo's role as the oldest bank in the West also will be depicted.

In another area of the office, items from local merchants will be displayed.

Speak Out:

How do you feel about recycling as a way to save money and conserve resources?

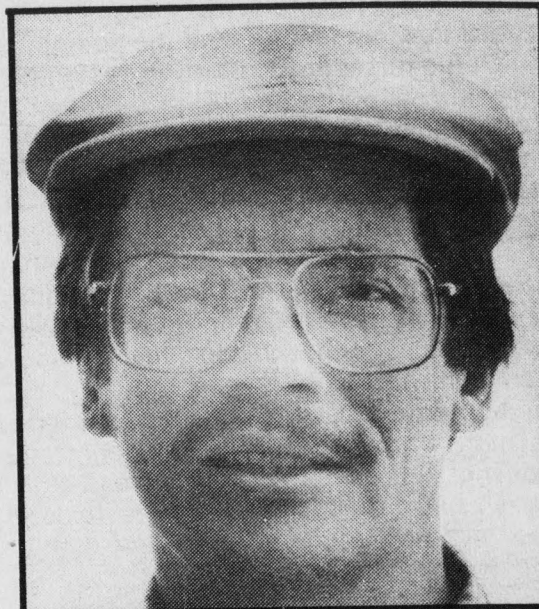

Kathy Metcalf, Upland: I think recycling is great. I do it sometimes but not as much as I should. It's a waste not to recycle.

Betty Winn, Upland: I never really thought about recycling but if the cost justified the means I would do it.

Helen Hollenbeck, Upland: I think recycling is a plus because if we didn't recycle we would be inundated with trash.

Eric Evenhusi, Upland: I think recycling is a great idea but we need to do more of it. Our kids recycle pop cans and it not only helps to clean up the environment, but it gives them some spending money too.

Recreation panel needs 2 members

Wanted: Two public-minded citizens, able to attend about one meeting a month, interested in the development of parks and recreation in the City of Upland. No experience necessary.

Upland's Park and Recreation Committee hasn't quite decided a want ad will be necessary to fill the two vacancies in their group but they aren't overlooking any avenues.

"Right now we are looking for a senior citizen and a member-at-large," said Recreation Director Larry Thornberg. "We would like to see some concerned citizens who have no ties with any special interests in the community but who do have an interest in what will be done with parks and recreation in Upland."

At a meeting last week, with the two spots not filled, and the absence of two members, when one of the members had to leave early, the committee was faced with the problem of maintaining a quorum.

"We know there are people out there who are vitally concerned and interested but just not aware we need them," Thornberg said.

Anyone interested in serving on the committee may pick up an application at the city clerk's office in City Hall. The appointment is made by the mayor.

Ponderosa Homes reports sales

Ponderosa Homes reported a net sales of more than $5.5 million during the first four months of 1983 for the company's Country Ridge project located on the wooded hillsides of Diamond Bar.

Sales of the new homes, according to Sylvia Michler, Ponderosa Homes Irvine Division marketing manager, averaged two to three per week during January through March. Country Ridge homes are priced from $180,990 and up.

Mulberry Place under construction

Construction on Mulberry Place, a $9 million community of 96 townhome condominiums located at the corner of Vineyard and Arrow Streets in Rancho Cucamonga, has begun.

According to Diana Woods, marketing director for the Beverly Hills-based firm, the first phase of 21 townhomes is expected to be completed by late summer.

Designed by architect Charles E. Copeland, AIA, Ontario, the new community will be built in a style reminiscent of early Pasadena, with amenities to include a pool, spa and cabana.

Entry fee is $195 per team with 100 percent of the entry fees going to the Danny Jaramillo Trust Fund.

More information is available by calling AM COM SPORTS at 981-6423 days or 628-0473 nights, or by visiting the office at 133 N. Campus Ave., Upland.

Desert tour offered

A two-day tour of Lake Havasu City and Laughlin, Nev., is being offered through the Ontario Recreation Department. The tour includes two nights lodging in Laughlin and stops at four casinos. It also includes a stop in Lake Havasu City where participants can enjoy the London Bridge Boat Ride. A final stop in Palm Springs will wind up the tour.

Fee for the two-day holiday, which is set for June 26 though 28, is $64 and includes one breakfast, one lunch and two dinners.

Space is limited, so early registration is advised. Call 988-9841 for more information.

Donkey basketball game set

A donkey basketball game, staged to benefit the West End YMCA and featuring a team of five city mayors versus a West San Bernardino County Board of Realtors Board, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday, at Alta Loma High School.

Among the "stars" of the game will be Ontario Mayor Robert Ellingwood, Chino Mayor Larry Walker, Montclair Mayor Harold Hayes and Rancho Cucamonga Mayor John Michaels.

Line-up for the opposing team will be San Bernardino County Board of Realtors President Mary Ellingwood, Audrey Adams, Gloria McGinnis, Jim Knudson and Barry Brandt.

Tickets for the event can be purchased at Alta Loma High School, the West San Bernardino County Board of Realtors office, 217 E. A St., Upland, the West End YMCA, 215 W. C St., Ontario, and at most real estate offices in Ontario, Chino, Upland, Montclair Rancho Cucamonga. Tickets are $2 in advance and $3 at the door.

Despite funding cuts, Chaffey study continues

Symonds said he is interested in the past because it is "kind of neat to think right around here 2,000 years ago there was a man grinding out dinner and hunting for jackrabbits."

Undisputed artifacts (about 600 years old) are found quite frequently in the Rancho Cucamonga area. Metates and manos, used to crush seeds and grain, are common items in the Chaffey College collection.

The college also recently acquired 5,000 new tools and artifacts from Los Angeles State College and Cal Poly Pomona.

On some of the mysteries her students have uncovered, McAllister said when experts don't know the answer, "they say it's sacred."

McAllister also serves as the local expert to the two or three people who call each month inquiring about what it is they have found.

In fact, it was McAllister who identified one of the prize gems of artifacts found locally. It was a 150 pound stone bowl chisled out of pure granite. McAllister is going to test the bowl to find out if liquid which initiated young Indian warriors was mixed in the bowl.

(That type of elixir would cause the Indians to hallucinate, with them having to retell what they saw to become accepted in a typical ritual, McAllister said).

Everything found in the area during the archeology program's 12-year existence has been recorded. According to the number of artifacts the college now has, someone must have taken some of those items.

"It's hard with students," McAllister admitted. "There seems to be a lot of ghosts. Things just disappear."

Though housing developments sometimes haunt the program, McAllister understands why they are built where so many artifacts are found.

"Where one group lived and liked it, others will." □

Standing before a table full of artifacts, McAllister holds a point Indians used in the area hundreds of years ago.

Brick mystery unsolved

developed by Mexican and Spanish cultures in the area at that time, she said.

Love believes the bricks were constructed by sophisticated American means and that the brickyard represents the changeover from the Spanish culture to that of industrialized America.

The process of building bricks was once a slow one. According to the design and stability of the handmade burned bricks found at the brickyard, Love says a highly technical process went into their construction.

"That's what is of interest," Love said. "What I found out was that most of the Americans used brick as building material. A man with technology could make bricks in a remote area very easily. Four men and a horse powered pugg mill could make 8,000 bricks a day by hand."

Love's hypothesis is that the brickyard was used for the Rains structures and that the site was used for brick manufacturing for the next 20 to 25 years. Though others disagree, Love says clay from Red Hill was used for the molding of the bricks.

She also said clay from other areas may have been used as the makers experimented with different materials.

Burned brick was only used in Southern California from about 1850 to 1885. Love says it was during those years that the brickyard was built.

Also found at the brickyard were China pot shards. The pieces were not from pots sold commercially, but from those Chinese people used for themselves. Love said Chinese people were often used as "off-bearers," who carried bricks from the molders table to the drying area.

"I'll continue to see what I can find out," Love said of her research. "If it wasn't for the Rains House, there is no argument left."

All Love has to go on as far as proof a brickyard even existed are newspaper accounts.

One, which ran in the Cucamonga Times in October of 1889, mentions the "Cucamonga Brick Kiln." Another reference is included in "Ontario From A to Z," a written book by the phantom author Phat, which notes: "Frank Haasis lives in the first brick residence and one of the first brick structures in Ontario. The brick was fired in a special kiln built at Red Hill for the purpose."

What Love would like to find is a brick with the Mullahay stamp.

"With all the search for literature and research done by Breaux, Chase and me," Love said, "we still have not found any direct hard evidence that it was the Mullally brickyard for the Rains House other than it was on the original land holding."

Why would Love get so deeply interested in the brickyard?

"The brickyard is not only nostalgia," Love said. "I want to know how did they do this? You didn't just go down to Ole's if you needed bricks."

"The way things are going, we might have to go back to the way things were done. We have to find out how they did it." □

Valuable music reference book added to library's collection

By Maureen Bartolotta
Upland Public Library

Twelve years in the making (longer than "Return of the Jedi"), "The New Grove Dictionary of Music and Musicians" has finally arrived at the Upland Public Library. The 20 volume set, edited by Stanley Sadie, has been completely revised and was published in 1980. The complete set cost $1,725, making it one of the most expensive items in our library.

While this may seem a prohibitive cost, we feel this set is an excellent investment and will be used extensively in the future. The predecessor to this work was last published in 1954 and has been considered the definitive source since that time. Many of our most frequently used reference tools must be replaced annually and could easily exceed this cost over a 25-year period.

The set was initially planned as the sixth edition of the dictionary originally prepared by Sir George Grove in the 1870's and 1880's. The world of music has undergone such a major change since the fifth edition was published that the editors felt an all new work was essential. Less than three percent of the material in the new set has been retained from earlier editions, and any such material has been re-edited and equipped with new bibliographies.

There are more than 22,500 articles and 7,500 cross-references, 4,000 illustrations, 3,000 musical examples and biographies of 16,500 composers and persons associated with music.

Where else can you find information which ranges from Bartok to the Beatles, from fugues to folk music or from conducting to country music? "The New Grove Dictionary of Music and Musicians" is truly the most comprehensive source available for anyone with an interest in music. As part of our Reference Collection, it is always available here in the library, and one of the Reference staff will be happy to help you locate and use it.

This set helps round out our music collection which we feel emphasizes the contemporary scene. In addition to biographies of such rock legends as Jim Morrison, Jimi Hendrix and Janis Joplin, we have many encyclopedias and discographies of popular music.

Mechanical checklist for motorists

Wise motorists will be certain their cars/mechanical systems are functioning properly before leaving on extended trips, advises the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Robert A. Mueller, Jr., senior consultant in the Auto Club's automotive information center, said a 15-minute inspection of the following pre-trip pointers can help prevent much of the trouble that can occur on vacations or summer outings.

He advises motorists to check their owner's manual for instructions on making these inspections or, if they prefer, to take their car to a mechanic.

Here's the club's pre-trip checklist:

- Check oil level and net mileage since the last change (follow directions in owner's manual).
- Check coolant level and inspect hoses for cracks or leaks.
- Check level of automatic transmission fluid.
- Check level of power steering fluid.
- Check brake fluid and look for signs of leakage.
- Check tire pressure, including spare. Add three or four pounds of extra air if driving a full carload at extended high speeds, but do not exceed tire specifications. Check tread depth and condition of all tires.

- Clean headlights and windshield. Dirty headlights will decrease nighttime visibility.
- Fill windshield washer reservoir with cleaning fluid.
- Check wiper blades and replace worn, brittle or streaking blades.
- Check battery level. Check terminals for corrosion.
- Inspect belts for fraying or looseness. Replace or tighten as needed.
- Check operation of horn, headlights, turn signals, brake lights, backup lights and emergency flashers.
- Check to see if you have tire-changing equipment.

Mueller advises motorists to take along a set of wrenches, screwdriver, pliers, flashlight and spare fuses.

The Small Towner

A monthly publication mailed directly to subscribers, providing a well categorized communication link between people who provide products & services of interest to their homes and the general public.

The sections are: Arts & Crafts
- Won't it be nice to know when and where the Holiday Boutiques are? When & where craft classes are taught? Where you can buy custom made dolls, etc? Other sections include:
Products offered, services offered, products and/or services needed, Clubs & organizations, activities & information, non-profit fund raisers and a special Food For Thought section.

This publication makes us a "SMALL TOWN" again - with information a person will not find elsewhere.

The 20th of each month is the cut-off date for each publication. Call NITA'S NOOK Mon. thru Sat., 10am to 5pm for our reasonable ad & subscription

87—Babysitting/ Child Care

The State of California requires that all persons offering babysitting or child care services must have a permit from the State Department of Social Services.
These permits can be obtained by applying to The
Div. of Community Care Licensing. You may call to inquire about these permits at (714) 383-4275. The Daily Report will require a permit number of all future
ads offering these services.

88—Help Wanted

The following rules apply to Class 88, HELP WANTED.
All Help Wanted ads must state nature of work being offered. Example: Sales-work, Secretary, Soliciting,
Driver, etc.
Statements of employee
compensation are optional;
however, when any dollar amount is listed, means of compensation must also be stated such as salary, hourly, commission, etc.
Employers who require a fee for equipment, application, registration or training, must so state in their ad.

Some ads appearing under this classification may require an investment, it is the responsibility of the reader to determine investment requirements.
Ads offering training must run under Class 93, EDUCA-TION-INSTRUCTIONS.
Violations of these rules should be brought to the attention of The Classified Supervisor.
